What Is A 4-H Club?

A 4-H Club is the most basic unit of 4-H. Some clubs are large and some are small; however, a new club can be organized with as few as 5 youth and a volunteer club leader.

Clubs generally meet once or twice a month on a regular schedule, which is determined by the families in the club. The clubs may plan recreational activities, community service projects, fundraisers and field trips.

As 4-H club members children have the opportunity to meet new people, make new friends, learn about projects, participate in club trips and activities, and more.

It does not cost anything to belong to 4-H. There are no uniforms to buy or products to sell. 4-H is open to all youths ages 5-18 and their families. There are a variety of clubs which offer something for everyone.

The mission of the North Carolina State University 4-H Youth Development Program is to assist youth and adults in becoming competent, coping, and contributing members of a global society, developing essential life skills through planned “learn by doing” experiences.
